Microsoft has show that time and time again, money can free you of breaking the law. The continue every day to participate in Monopolistic acts while their lawyers endlessly tie up issues from 5 years ago. Everyday they put more people out of work, and bilk their customers (who really have no choice anymore) for more and more money. Microsoft should be broken up and forced to compete, rather than dictate and bully. MS is the Standard Oil of our time and our economy now runs on computers.
